

September 17, 2012

Failing Infrastructure: How bad is it?

Monday, September 17, 2012 | Categories: Episodes , Interview Panel 0

Like 13 Tweet 19  2 Share 32

The call of the open road is often drowned out by the sound of crumbling concrete, cracked tarmac and ominously creaky bridges. Canada's municipalities say they need billions to repair the country's infrastructure. Today, we are going down the road and over bridges and into pipes to see how bad it is.

Dr. Guy Felio, Project Manager,
Principal Researcher, Author